The following is a paraphrase of a cable sent to the War Department in Washington, by Brigadier General Schuyler, head of the American Section of the Allied Control Commission in Rumania. The cable was based on a discussion with Lt. Gen. Vinogradov, head of the Russian Section of the Allied Control Commission, on present conditions in Rumania and contains the latter's expression of opinion on the subject:

1. The present Rumanian Government appears to be making sincere efforts to carry out armistice terms. Most, and probably all, the Rumanian officers are co-operating well with Armistice Commission. However, many positions in lower Government echelons are held by pro-Fascists or incompetents who are interested solely in personal gain. These men are still causing delays and misunderstandings. The Government will continue to operate satisfactorily unless and until a thorough house-cleaning is undertaken.
2. Under General Antonescu's strong leadership the present Government has excellent control over the country within 50 to 100 miles from Bucharest. Beyond that limit, however, the Government's control is very weak and in places non-existent. General Vinogradov has many facts which substantiate this view.

Comment: For partial confirmation of this statement, see GR-115 of 25 December 1944, which is a description of local government administration in Transylvania.

3. The Government is still delaying final agreement on certain reparations payments, notably in matter of horses and locomotives. If this drags on much longer, serious pressure must be applied.

4. It is a fact that certain sections of the country and particularly Bucharest, face serious shortages in bread, meat and oil within the next few weeks. However, this is definitely a Romanian problem and the Aristocrat Control Commission will not become involved. Sufficient materials and transport are on hand. Shortages are due to lack of proper organization to insure efficient operation.

Comment: In the above-mentioned cable Gen. Scamylor stated that he concurred in the above opinions, except that he doubted that efficient transport was available to effect desired distribution of food and fuel. He stated that the Romanians emphatically deny that they have enough trucks, railway cars or locomotives; they admit improper organization but blame this on the Russians who are still in general control of the rail lines throughout the country.
